HISTORIC BRISTOL DAY RAFFLE

This year's Historic Bristol Day theme, The Delaware Canal in Bristol, inspired artist Joe Sagolla to paint a beautiful image of people enjoying skating on the lagoon. Depicted in the background is the Grundy Mill and the Gazebo. As in the past, we will be selling raffle tickets for one lucky winner of this painting. The raffle drawing will take place on Bristol Day. Look for the raffle tickets to be sent out next month. Tickets will also be sold at major events up to and including Historic Bristol Day.

JUNE WILL SOON BE HERE

Gratitude Extended

The Bristol Cultural and Historical Foundation extends its sincere gratitude to BCHF member Dave McGlynn for setting up the chairs/tabes whenever a program or special event is scheduled in our historic headquarters.

We are also extremely grateful to our faithful volunteers and financial supporters who continually respond "YES" when asked for help - - whether it be serving on a committee, staffing an event, furnishing a refreshment, performing any of th myriad tasks required during the year, and/or providing monetary support.

It's probably not said often enough, but it's meant most sincerely. .

THANK YOU!

Looking Back Approximately One-Hundred Years

When William Howard Taft, the 27th U.S. President by the press and the government as "substandard". Two (1909-1913) was in office, prices were considerably different. One of the most noticeable was the cost involved with the automobile. Since the private car was very new, fuel to power it was usually purchased at a pharmacy. In the 45 states that made up our nation at that time, there were only 8,000 cars and not much more than 155 miles of paved roads. In most cities, the average speed was 10 miles per hour. (Horse and wagon was the chief form of privately-owned transportation.)

In 1910, the average wage per hour was 22 cents and most workers were earning between $200 and $400 per year. One of the professions that paid much more was that of the mechanical engineer (average about $5000 per year).

Physicians were not required to attend college. (Only about 10 percent had a college degree). Many attended the so-called medical schools and these were condemned next 10 years.

of the major causes of death were pneumonia and tuberculosis. Diarrhea was listed as the third highest cause of deaths. Life expectancy for a man was 47 years.

In the markets, a five pound bag of sugar sold for 20ϕ . Twelve eggs usually cost fourteen cents with coffee only one center higher than a dozen eggs at 15 cents per pound.

Still to be invented were the crossword puzzle, beer being sold in a can and iced tea.

Only 6 percent of all Americans were graduated from high school. Two out of every 10 adults could not read or write.

In all of the U.S. in 1910, there were only 230 reported murders.

One can only imagine what changes will occur in the
